

Training and Workshops

Working with wildflowers is a unique subject area that requires a specialised knowledge of the most appropriate methods and techniques. We provide a range of training and workshops on these techniques.

Workshops

Years of practical experience have enabled us to develop very distinctive operational practices that provide the most efficient and effective way of maximising the success of wildflower planting schemes.

We have developed a detailed technical knowledge of wildflower habitat creation, restoration, and enhancement. As a result we can provide training workshops in various aspects of the subject to land managers, landscape architects, and others interested in learning more about wildflower habitats.

We can provide training on:

- Site assessment - including fertility testing, pH analysis, etc.
- Detailed ground and seed bed preparation - (ploughing, rotovation, etc).
- Selection of species or products, how they should be sown, and any other specialised services required.
- Site specific instructions on seasonal cutting regimes, weeding advice, etc.
